

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON AT SEATTLE

VERBATIM REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS
BEFORE THE HONORABLE THOMAS S. ZILLY
UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE

APPEARANCES:

For the Plaintiff: Catherine L. Crisham
U.S. Attorney's Office
700 Stewart Street
Suite 5220
Seattle, WA 98101

For the Defendant: Michael C. Nance
Law Offices of Michael C. Nance
1001 Fourth Avenue
Suite 3200
Seattle, WA 98154

1                   THE COURT: Good afternoon. Ladies and gentlemen.

2 Please be seated.

3                   The clerk will please call the next matter on the calendar.

4                   THE CLERK: Thank you, Your Honor.

5                   Case No. CR17-135, United States versus Steven Thompson.

6                   MS. CRISHAM: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Kate Crisham
7 for the United States.

8                   THE COURT: Good afternoon again, counsel.

9                   MR. NANCE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Michael Nance
10 for Steven Thompson, standing to my left.

11                  THE COURT: All right. Good afternoon.

12                  Are the parties ready to proceed with sentencing?

13                  MS. CRISHAM: Yes, Your Honor.

14                  MR. NANCE: Yes, Your Honor.

15                  THE COURT: Did the defendant receive the presentence 16 report and the sentencing recommendations of probation?

17                  MR. NANCE: Yes, Your Honor.

18                  THE COURT: All right. In addition, I have reviewed the 19 release status report dated January 9, pretrial services report, 20 Docket 35, the plea agreement, the government's sentencing memo, 21 the defendant's sentencing memo, and a supplemental exhibit to 22 the defense sentencing memo, a letter, Docket 252, filed under 23 seal.

24                  And earlier today I granted the motion to seal that was 25 pending in this proceeding, and sealed, I think, the government's 1 memo and the defense memo.

2 MR. NANCE: Your Honor, there were two supplements for 3 which --

4 THE COURT: Yes. And I just referred to two 5 supplements. I read them both.

6 They are, again for the record, a supplementary exhibit, 7 Docket 252-1, and -- I'm sorry, I didn't refer to it -- a letter 8 from the brother, which is filed as 254, which I did review.
9 It's called a "Second Supplementary Exhibit."

10 All right. Are there any factual disputes to the facts 11 stated in the presentence report?

12 MS. CRISHAM: Not from the government, Your Honor.

13 MR. NANCE: Your Honor, we have a couple of matters that 14 we would like to make a record of.

15 THE COURT: So this relates to facts in the presentence 16 report; is that right?

17 MR. NANCE: Yes. Yes.

18 THE COURT: All right.

19 MR. NANCE: Paragraph 15 --

20 THE COURT: Just a moment.

21 All right.

2 THE COURT: Were you present during the earlier 3 sentencings?

4 MR. NANCE: Yes.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Good.

6 MR. NANCE: Yes.

7 THE COURT: Because some of that was discussed earlier.

8 MR. NANCE: Yes. And I'll try to address some of it 9 here.

20 MR. NANCE: That's what they say, yes.

21 THE COURT: That's what they say.

22 MR. NANCE: Yes.

23 THE COURT: All right. Well, your objection to 24 paragraph 15 is noted for the record. I'm not going to change 25 it.

1 MR. NANCE: All right.

2 Then well into the report, paragraphs 93 through 95, 3 "Financial Condition: Ability to Pay," I just want to make a 4 brief comment that we don't think that a fine is appropriate in 5 this case.

6 THE COURT: And none was recommended by probation.

7 MR. NANCE: Well, I thought they recommended 5,000.

8 THE COURT: I don't think so.

9 Well, they didn't recommend a fine.

10 MR. NANCE: Okay. Well, I'm not going to argue with 11 that if they --

12 THE COURT: Is that right?

13 MS. OLSEN: Your Honor, there is the Justice for Victims 14 of Trafficking Act of 2015, and it's mandatory for all cases that 15 fall under this crime, under Chapter, I believe, 110 or 117. And 16 this criminal conviction falls under that chapter.

17 If the Court deems him indigent, then the Court may waive 18 that $5,000 fine.

19 THE COURT: So that's a little different than the fine.
20 And I didn't focus on that. I'm sorry.

21 MR. NANCE: I can just give you the one-minute overview 22 of his financial circumstances. They are not good. He had a 23 well-paying job at Microsoft, through Microsoft. He was a 24 software -- correct me if I'm wrong here -- kind of a testing 25 engineer that he worked through contract. He made good money

1 there. In fact, money was not the motivating factor here by any 2 means in this case. But that's gone.

3 One of the immediate collateral consequences was to lose his 4 job. He cashed out his IRA, and that's --

5 THE DEFENDANT: 401(k).

6 MR. NANCE: His 401(k). That's largely spent now. He 7 lived on that for a bit. He's now making $14 an hour at Home 8 Depot, struggling to pay bills each month.

9 And so to the extent the Court has any discretion, I would 10 urge against the imposition of financial penalties here. Those 11 are the main bones of contention we have with the presentence 12 report.

13 We agree with the calculation, the guideline calculation. We 14 agree with the recommendation, apart from the fine.

15 THE COURT: Well, reading the statement in 16 paragraph 104, it doesn't sound like I have any discretion. "The 17 court shall assess 5,000, per count, on any non-indigent person 18 convicted of an offense under the chapter."

19 Are you saying he's indigent?

20 MR. NANCE: Well, I guess it depends on how you define 21 it. He certainly qualified for CJA appointment. He didn't have 22 the money to hire private counsel. I'm court appointed, and have 23 been from day one.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, that's a question with 25 regard to sentencing as opposed to --

1 MR. NANCE: I understand.

2 THE COURT: All right. So I'm going to adopt as facts 3 the facts stated in the presentence report. And with respect to 4 the offense-level computations, I do not believe that this 5 defendant should be given a minor role adjustment, and it would 6 be my intent not to allow that and to, therefore, increase his 7 adjusted offense level accordingly.

8 Do you wish to be heard on that, Mr. Nance?

9 MR. NANCE: Yes.

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 MR. NANCE: We, naturally, agree with probation on this, 12 that when compared to the other co-conspirators in the case, that 13 his culpability is less than average. Mr. Thompson did not 14 recruit anyone to this conspiracy. He did not manage these 15 women. He didn't manage any co-conspirators. He did not 16 advertise their services. He had zero dealings with 17 Backpage.com. He had no dealings with any customers of these 18 women. With one exception, he didn't handle directly any 19 prostitution proceeds. That one exception was done because he 20 was specifically requested by Ms. Wang to accept some money from 21 one of the women. He indirectly accepted earnings when he paid 22 expenses that were forwarded to him. He had no proprietary 23 interest in this operation. He was probably the least trusted by 24 the conspiracy leader because he was of a distinctly different 25 cultural and language background. He spoke just marginal

1 Mandarin. That was the language of choice by every one of the 2 other defendants. And finally, and probably most importantly, he 3 was motivated not by money or greed, certainly not by any need or 4 desire to exploit women, but by the need for emotional and 5 personal companionship with women. These, I think, cast him in a 6 different light, in a more lenient light, than the other 7 defendants that have been before the Court.

8 Because it may be important, he had no sexual relations with 9 any of these women. He was seeking something permanent. He may 10 have been looking for love in the wrong places. But that was his 11 primary motivation, was to find a woman. He wanted a wife. That 12 may sound absurd to some people, but that's what he wanted. And 13 this was a way to meet women. This was a way to meet women who 14 might be interested in him. That was what he got from this.

15 That's essentially my argument on why he is a minor 16 participant. I mean, I have other comments about the case, if 17 you want to hear them now.

18 THE COURT: No, not yet.

19 MR. NANCE: Okay.

20 THE COURT: Thank you.

21 I'm satisfied that the facts stated in paragraph 14 of the 22 presentence report is sufficient to rule that he did not have a 23 minor role. It went over a three-year period, he drove numerous 24 prostitutes to brothels, he picked them up at the airports, he 25 was in regular telephone or text communication with Ms. Wang

1 during the course of the conspiracy, he rented apartments, he 2 rented them in his own name, or leased them. I'm satisfied that 3 his role was similar perhaps to Mr. Wu's -- W-u is the 4 spelling -- role, and I don't think he got a minor role. I'm not 5 about to give him a minor role.

6 So for purposes of guideline computations, I conclude that 7 the total offense level is 15, the criminal history category is 8 I, and the guideline range is 18 to 24 months.

9 I will hear from the government as to what the appropriate 10 sentence is.

11 MS. CRISHAM: Thank you, Your Honor.

12 Your Honor, we're asking for the Court to impose a sentence 13 of six months. As Your Honor noted, Mr. Thompson has been a part 14 of this conspiracy for a long time. He joined in approximately 15 2014, and in some ways he played an even more important role in 16 the conspiracy than Mr. Wu. He had several advantages, including 17 the ability to speak English.

18 Contrary to what Mr. Nance suggested, that wasn't a detriment 19 to him in this conspiracy. It was a benefit. He was able to 20 communicate with customers, which, again, was clear from the text 21 messages that were recovered, showing him drafting out 22 instructions on how to get to a particular apartment that 23 Ms. Wang could then send to customers.

24 He also had a good job and good credit, and that allowed him 25 to rent high-end apartments as residential brothels for the

1 organization. He also furnished these apartments and set up 2 utilities, including Internet connectivity in them.

3 And even though Mr. Thompson didn't admit this to the 4 government in his proffer, and he still seems to be saying this, 5 his sole motivation in becoming involved in this was not to find 6 a wife. Those text messages that were recovered after he had his 7 proffer show that he actually scouted out potential apartment 8 locations for Mrs. Wang and that he also received money, a 9 monthly fee of $700 for each apartment that he rented for her.

10 In scouting locations, Mr. Thompson would take note of 11 whether a particular location would be a good location for 12 prostitution, he would talk about whether there was good parking, 13 whether it would be easy for customers to find, and whether it 14 was located in an area or part of the complex where neighbors 15 wouldn't notice foot traffic.

16 He regularly picked up women at SeaTac, he took them to and 17 from various brothel locations, and he also drove them to the 18 grocery store and on other errands. He also purchased supplies 19 in bulk, including condoms, and delivered those to the brothels.

20 Finally, Mr. Thompson picked up prostitution earnings from 21 various locations and handed them over to Ms. Wang.

22 And, again, we believe that the evidence shows that he did 23 financially benefit, and this was part of the reason he became 24 involved. $700 a month, and we know that he was renting several 25 apartments a month, and $4,000 in cash was found in a

1 hollowed-out book in his apartment.

2 And that leads me to his sentence. The U.S. Attorney's 3 Office has really struggled with our recommendation here, and 4 particularly whether [REDACTED]

8 [REDACTED]

9 [REDACTED]

10 [REDACTED]

11 [REDACTED]

12 THE COURT: So to what extent was he not fully candid 13 and how was he minimizing his role?

14 MS. CRISHAM: I think in two different ways. We're very 15 concerned about the fact that never, not once during his proffer, 16 did Mr. Thompson ever say that he was making money, a fee, for 17 renting these apartments. He said that Ms. Wang would 18 occasionally give him some money to reimburse him for damage to 19 the apartment, but he neglected to mention the $700 per month, 20 per apartment fee, which we know he asked of her because we see 21 it in the text messages and we see him negotiating that with her.

22 THE COURT: Did you trace his bank accounts to see how 23 much he had got?

24 MS. CRISHAM: Your Honor, we were not able to do that.
25 And it may well be that he was keeping this cash at his home and 1 just simply spending cash rather than depositing it.

2       But I think it's clear that he wants to portray himself as 3 someone who was shy, someone who was awkward, someone who did 4 this to find a woman. And while he may have been interested in 5 romantic possibilities, it's also clear that he was getting 6 financial benefits from this. And so the government is concerned 7 with, first of all, his refusal to mention this during the 8 proffer and kind of still sticking to the story during his 9 statement to the Court.

10      These text messages also make clear that Mr. Thompson wasn't 11 the naive, deliberately ignorant person, which I think is the 12 phrase he uses. His texts about customers and his attempts to 13 find apartments where foot traffic wouldn't attract attention, as 14 well as his involvement in purchasing items like condoms, make 15 clear that he wasn't just deliberately ignorant. He knew that 16 this organization was involved in prostitution, and he willingly 17 went along with it for years.

18      There were also some disturbing text messages which were 19 included in our exhibit to the Court, where he spoke very 20 disparagingly of some of the women. There was one instance where 21 he threatened to throw one woman "out on her ass" if he saw her 22 again.

23      Again, these text messages really contrast with his 24 self-description of himself as someone who was basically harmless 25 and only wanted to find a wife. Instead, they show that, just

1 like the other co-defendants, he saw these women as commodities 2 and was less concerned about their status and why they were in 3 this situation than what they could do for him.

4 Given those minimizations and his failure to provide material 5 information about the financial benefits, we did struggle in my 6 office whether or not to recommend a sentence that took into 7 account [REDACTED] We ultimately did agree to do so. And,
8 again, that's [REDACTED]
9 [REDACTED]
10 [REDACTED]
11 [REDACTED]

12 However, we do strongly believe that a term of imprisonment 13 is necessary. Mr. Thompson is virtually identical to Mr. Wu, who 14 served eight months in prison, with the exception that Mr. Wu was 15 fully candid, so far as we know, during his proffer. And I think 16 allowing Mr. Thompson no time, the sentence that he's requesting, 17 would result in unwarranted sentencing disparity, and it would 18 also reward him for his failure to tell the whole truth.

19 So, Your Honor, that is our position, unless Your Honor has 20 any further questions for me.

21 THE COURT: No questions. Thank you.

22 Mr. Nance.

23 MR. NANCE: Our recommendation, Your Honor, is that we 24 ask that you adopt the recommendation made by probation, who is 25 very familiar with Mr. Thompson and his role in this.

1       Essentially, this case is about a decent man's fundamental 2 need for female companionship overwhelming his better judgment 3 and his common sense.

4       Steve Thompson just turned 60 earlier this week. He's 60
5 years old. No criminal history. He's always been an achiever.
6 You can go back to his days in high school. One of his old high 7 school football teammates flew out from North Carolina to be here 8 today, Randy Angel. He keeps long-time friendships because 9 that's the kind of guy he is. He's always been an achiever, he's 10 always worked a full-time job, he's maintained very stable 11 relationships, and generally thought very well of by everyone who 12 knows him and who has worked with him.

13       But he's always been looking for love, and always comes up a 14 little bit short. And so he got into this conspiracy. As hard 15 as that might be for some folks to accept, he got into this 16 conspiracy, or more like he fell into this conspiracy, because he 17 couldn't resist the opportunity to meet younger women who might 18 be interested in him. And he had blinders on for a while. This 19 idea of willful blindness or deliberate ignorance -- I may have 20 used that in talking to him once, and that's probably where he 21 got it -- he didn't keep that forever. He was ignoring the 22 obvious, and eventually the obvious became too obvious. And, 23 yeah, he knew what he was doing, and he's acknowledged that.
24 It's in the plea agreement what he did. He stipulated to that.
25 And he doesn't deny that. He's never really denied that.

1        It was never, though, about deliberately exploiting women.
2        If you had asked him in the moment, he would have said, "Well, 3        I'm being nice to these women. I'm helping them. I'm being nice 4        to them. I'm treating them with decency and with respect." He 5        never had sexual relations with any of these women. That wasn't 6        what he was looking for. He did take them shopping. He tried to 7        be nice to them. And his perception was they liked him. They 8        really appreciated a man being nice to them without wanting 9        something in return.

10       Financial gain was certainly not his first motivation, not 11       his goal. He had this good-paying job. He didn't need the few 12       dollars that this could have gained him, if it did at all. The 13       government has made a big deal of him not being forthcoming, and 14       it seems to relate to this idea that he was making all of this 15       secret money on the side that he didn't tell them about. We 16       really take issue with that. He confessed his involvement, the 17       essence of his involvement. After he was arrested, he told the 18       police he knew that he was part of this operation.

19       After I began representing him, we met with the government, 20       as quickly as we could arrange something, to give a proffer.
21       From the outset, [REDACTED]

2 The government certainly knew about the $4,200 that they had 3 received, that they recovered in cash from his house. If it was 4 such a big issue, why wasn't he asked about it? He didn't tell 5 any fibs in that proffer. And he would have answered the 6 questions. He also gave answers that for any man, and for him
7 for sure, were deeply embarrassing. Deeply personal, deeply 8 embarrassing information that he told about himself in this 9 proffer.

22 The government, Ms. Crisham, indicated that his English was 23 such an asset. Perhaps it was, but there was no direct contact 24 with customers. He didn't screen customers. He didn't send 25 customers texts. He did not purchase condoms or wipes. That did

1 not happen. At most --

2 THE COURT: Well, just a moment. Isn't that a fact 3 that's in the presentence report?

4 Well, I don't see it in paragraph 14. Well, let's take a 5 look at -- all right. It's not in 14.

6 MR. NANCE: Yeah. The closest he might have come to 7 that would have been to agree to transfer a package remaining 8 unopened. It could have contained anything. It could have. But 9 he didn't wittingly provide condoms or wipes to anyone at any 10 time.

11 There was a reference to this disparaging remark he made in a 12 text about this Taiwanese woman. I think the word "pig" may have 13 been used. I don't have it in front of me. He can't deny the 14 text, but the text referred to this particular woman who had 15 trashed an apartment with his name on it, that he personally had 16 to come in afterwards and clean up. It took him three hours to 17 clean up the pigsty that she had created there, everything from 18 destroying furniture to flushing chicken bones down the food 19 disposal. So that was the reference there. It was said in anger 20 and irritation at what had happened there. That's what that was.
21 He saw her later, and he was over the irritation. So I don't 22 think you can take that one sample and say he therefore has this 23 disparaging attitude toward women. That's not the way he viewed 24 himself at all.

25 Regarding the fee that, again, the government has continued

1 to fix on, I was re-reading their memorandum. They cited that 2 example, that same example, about five or six times in their 3 memorandum. There was some texting from Mr. Thompson to Fang
4 Wang that referenced a fee, and it was in the neighborhood of 500 5 or 700 dollars. What he was trying to do was build up what he 6 thought of as an insurance cash reserve to pay for damages that 7 he thought could happen to these apartments that were in his 8 name. I mean, one example was the Taiwanese woman who trashed 9 things. Who pays for that? Mr. Thompson had to pay for it.
10 It's his apartment. He has to pay the damages. And so in order 11 to make it clear to Ms. Wang, he just called it a "fee." But it 12 was essentially an amount that he was trying to save, so that in 13 the end -- and he would pay expenses out of that as well.

14 Again, he wasn't making any money at this. And if you did a 15 quick ledger check, if that were possible to do, at most he's up 16 a few hundred over the course of two and a half years, two years.
17 So there was really very little about that to report to the 18 agents or to volunteer to the agents. If they had asked him 19 about it, he would have talked about it. So it just seems unfair 20 to say he wasn't fully cooperative because he didn't volunteer 21 something that he didn't think was that significant.

22 The government, we believe, has such a different view of his 23 actions, but it doesn't understand the Steven Thompson that his 24 family understand and that his friends know. I would refer you 25 briefly to the letters, the various letters, that have come out.

1 In fact, two folks are here. Mr. Angel is here from North 2 Carolina, a trusted friend. A couple of the things that stood 3 out in the letter to me: Steven Thompson "is of the highest 4 stock," he says. "Selfless." He would do anything for a friend.
5 "He would take a bullet for me."

6 He also would have insight into this notion of why Steve 7 Thompson would have $4,000 in cash at his place. He has a 8 long-time habit of squirreling away money. That's just the way 9 he rolls.

10 Also present is Hong Duong, his close friend. She is leasing 11 him a room now. Mr. Thompson is the godfather of her 12 seven-year-old daughter. She described him as positive, with a 13 caring attitude.

14 Then you have got letters from his brother and sister who 15 care a lot about him as well. He's loyal, he's a good caregiver, 16 a thoughtful listener, and a provider.

17 And then there are the people actually within the court 18 system that have actually taken time, spent time with 19 Mr. Thompson, beginning with probation. Brieanne Olsen, the 20 probation officer, has made a thoughtful recommendation. He was 21 supervised for seven or eight months by Pretrial Officer Mark 22 Okano, who, I think, is -- here he is -- here to show his 23 support. His conduct on pretrial supervision was exemplary. And 24 you can bet if he remained in the community working at his job at 25 Home Depot, it would continue.

1       There's no one, even directly from the government, that 2       thinks that Steven Thompson, if he's allowed to remain in the 3       community, is going to get back into mischief again or going to 4       commit any new offenses. It's just highly, highly unlikely, very 5       remote, that that would happen.

6       He is deeply chastened, I believe deeply remorseful, in a way 7       that is unusual. I was watching the last sentencing here where 8       you asked the defendant, "How many times have you given that 9       little thing about, 'Oh, I'm so sorry. I'm so sorry, Your 10       Honor'?" And we have all heard it. I have heard it a hundred 11       times, and you have probably heard it a thousand times. It's 12       commonplace. But the remorse that you're likely to hear from 13       Steven Thompson, I believe, is deep, it's genuine. He's not just 14       sorry that he was caught. He's sorry. He is regretful for the 15       lives of these women. He feels very badly about that. And he 16       feels very badly, remorseful, that his attempts at kindness to 17       these women might have in some way helped further facilitate and 18       perpetrate, perpetuate this conspiracy. He feels very bad about 19       that. He feels embarrassed about it. That's not really who he 20       sees himself as being. He is sorry that he has disappointed his 21       friends. He's sorry that he has disappointed his family. I 22       think, ultimately, he's sorry that he disappointed himself in 23       this.

24       I would urge you to take a very hard look at the 25       recommendation that is being made here, and it is a

1 recommendation of time served. He has had just a taste of jail, 2 he knows he never wants to go back there again, and the odds of 3 it ever needing to happen are zero. He wants to keep his life 4 post-Microsoft in an upward trajectory. He's taken a job. He's 5 doing a responsible job now at Home Depot. He's doing well.
6 He's on the road to management there. He would like to stay 7 there. He would like to be kept in the community.

8 We would urge the Court to adopt the recommendation of 9 probation, give him a time-served sentence, perhaps restrict him 10 to location monitoring for a few months, with permission for 11 release to go to a job or to other court-approved errands.

12 So that's our recommendation. I know Mr. Thompson wants to 13 address you. Mr. Angel has told me he's waiting in the wings and 14 available to talk about, if the Court wants to hear it, anything 15 about Mr. Thompson's propensities to squirrel money away or to 16 provide further character. He's known him a long time. They 17 played football together in high school, and they have been close 18 friends since then.

19 THE COURT: All right. I will hear from the defendant.

20 MR. NANCE: Thank you.

21 THE DEFENDANT: Thank you.

22 THE COURT: Good afternoon, sir.

23 THE DEFENDANT: I prepared a letter, as best that I
24 could, which attempted to explain my involvement and the depths 25 of my regret, and I'll stand with that. I don't want to just

1 repeat the points and take up time doing that. Mr. Nance has 2 done a good job in the last few minutes.

3 The main thing that I want to say is that I am sorry in the 4 deepest way, and as Mr. Nance said, I'm not sorry because I got 5 caught. The sources of my sorrow are deep. I will just name two 6 or three quickly.

7 I was raised in a good home, and my parents instilled proper 8 values in me. I know the difference between right and wrong.

9 There's no question. And I was wrong, and I admit it. And I'm 10 embarrassed. I feel terrible about it. I'm full of regret.

11 Additionally, this case has put me on the opposite side of 12 institutions which I respect and admire and have my whole life: 13 law enforcement, the police, the FBI, the justice system, of 14 course, the military. Those are institutions that I support.
15 I'm on that side. And now I suddenly find myself on the other 16 side. I will regret that for the rest of my life.

17 And I have embarrassed myself in front of my younger sister
18 and younger brother, and that's the worst thing that I've ever 19 gone through. There was never any criminality in my life. This 20 came as a shock to the people that have been brought into it.
21 But I can assure you that this will never happen again. I will 22 never again have to stand in front of my sister and my brother 23 and explain and apologize for bad behavior.

24 I thank my friend Randy and my best friend Hong for standing 25 with me. Randy traveled all the way here from North Carolina. I

1 can assure you that there will never again come a time when I
2 stand in front of those fine people and have to tell them
3 something like this. It's not going to happen.

4 I am sorry. And I regret -- I feel tremendous sorrow for the 5 ladies that were involved in this. I never intended to hurt 6 anyone and never saw myself as hurting anyone.

7 I regret the outburst that the prosecution has correctly 8 framed in the text message, but I would say that that was a few 9 minutes of passion about being upset about that apartment having 10 been trashed and broken and having to spend all that time. And 11 I said what I said, but I would submit that that is the only time 12 that I have ever -- I have never talked like that about another 13 person. I have never sent another message like that, certainly 14 not within this case or outside of this case. That's not the way 15 I am.

16 The people that I associated with in this case, I have no 17 doubt that they liked me. I know they enjoyed my company. And 18 as Mr. Nance said, and I believe I included it in my letter, I 19 now deeply regret that my help and assistance may have caused 20 even one of those ladies to stay in that business longer than 21 they might have otherwise. I might have made it more tolerable 22 for them. I regret that.

23 Now I think I would probably just be going in circles, so I'm 24 going to stop and just say once again that I'm sorry, I apologize 25 to everyone involved, the court, my friends, my family, to you,

1 Judge, to everyone. I apologize. I'm sorry.

2 THE COURT: All right. Let me ask you, Mr. Thompson, 3 were you present during the earlier sentencing?

4 THE DEFENDANT: Yes, sir.

5 THE COURT: All right. So you have heard everything 6 that I had to say before. I won't repeat it in detail.

7 But for the record, and I will start with what you have said 8 and what your lawyer has said, and what I think is true, there's 9 no question in my mind that you're deeply remorseful, you are 10 sorry. I'm sure that you will never stand in front of another 11 judge and be sentenced for anything again. That's all true. And 12 from the review of your history and the like, you had a fine 13 upbringing, you had a wonderful job at Microsoft, you had never 14 been convicted of anything. All of these are factors that I have 15 to take into account.

16 But I also have to look at the nature and extent of your 17 involvement in this multi-defendant prostitution ring that 18 Ms. Wang was organizing. You may have, when she approached you 19 first in that coffee shop, thought that she would be someone you 20 could be friends with, but it is clear this prostitution ring 21 lasted, that we know of, for almost three years, and you played 22 an important role, such a role that I concluded you were not a 23 minor player because of all the reasons the prosecution has 24 indicated. But you did speak English clearly, that's your native 25 language, and you did rent various apartments that were used for

1 prostitution, and you knew that that's what they were going to be 2 used for. And you even made recommendations and scouted out some 3 of these and said, "This is a good location; this is not so 4 good." You got money, a fee, for some of these locations. And 5 whether it was a maintenance fund, or whatever, to fix up any 6 problems -- I don't know why you were getting money -- it's clear 7 that you did receive financial benefit. And the text messages, 8 I've read, and some of them are troubling because they reflect 9 someone who is giving Ms. Wang information about how she can do 10 this prostitution ring better.

11 [REDACTED]
12 [REDACTED]
13 [REDACTED]
14 [REDACTED]
15 [REDACTED] You
16 heard me sentence him to time served, which was eight months, 17 because he's been in custody.

18 I'm satisfied that a requirement that you go to jail is 19 necessary. This is a serious offense, and it went on for a long 20 period of time, and I would be remiss as a judge, in my opinion, 21 if I did not require you to go to prison and reflect on what you 22 have done.

23 What we have here is a guideline range of 18 to 24 months.
24 Now, these guidelines don't bind me, and I'm not going to send 25 you to jail for 18 to 24 months, but that's the range that people

1 committing the crime that you committed, as an average, have been 2 sentenced over the years. So it gives us some indication of 3 what's appropriate.

4 Well, you have cooperated. You don't have a prior arrest 5 record like Mr. Jefferson. I don't know if you were here for 6 him, but he's got enough for all of us. I'm satisfied that, 7 under all the circumstances, a sentence of eight months, which is 8 essentially what I gave Mr. Wu, is necessary, but not longer than 9 necessary.

10 It will therefore be the judgment of this Court that this 11 defendant be committed to the custody of the Bureau of Prisons 12 for a period of eight months. I think anything less would be a 13 disparate sentence. I need to look at all of the people in the 14 conspiracy and attempt to arrive at some reasonable sentence that 15 reflects a similarity to the nature of your involvement. And as 16 best I can tell, you were involved equally with Mr. Wu in what 17 you did, and that type of a disparity is not appropriate.

18 Therefore, it will be the judgment of the Court that you are 19 committed to the Bureau of Prisons for a period of eight months, 20 followed by a period of two years of supervised release, subject 21 to each of the standard conditions as well as each of the special 22 conditions that were recommended by probation. I will waive the 23 fine. I find you don't have the ability to pay a fine. I will 24 assess the $100 special assessment. And I'll conclude that 25 because of your financial affairs that I will not impose the 1 sentence under the JVTA.

2 I assume that you're going to be placed at SeaTac, and I'm 3 going to let you self-report. If you have a request for a 4 placement somewhere else, I will make it, but the Bureau of 5 Prisons is going to decide where you go.

6 Do you want a recommendation on placement?

7 (Mr. Nance and the defendant confer.)

8 THE COURT: The nearest is Camp Sheridan. But you tell 9 me.

10 MR. NANCE: If I could have 30 seconds, Your Honor?

11 (Mr. Nance and the defendant confer.)

12 THE COURT: Okay. Your 30 seconds is up. And mine is 13 only a recommendation in any event, and the Bureau is going to 14 decide. And most likely they're going to put you at SeaTac.

15 But do you want a recommendation?

16 MR. NANCE: Yes. We would ask the recommendation to 17 be --

18 THE COURT: Camp Sheridan?

19 MR. NANCE: -- to FDC Sheridan.

20 THE COURT: All right. Let's put that in the judgment.

21 And I will advise you, Mr. Thompson, that to the extent you 22 haven't waived your rights to appeal the sentence, any appeal 23 must be filed within 14 days of the time I sign the judgment, 24 which I'm going to do today.

25 And I want to tell you and advise you that I'm going to 1 continue the same conditions of release pending your placement.

2 What happens is you will get notified by probation of where and 3 when to report. And it's up to you, if you get placed at 4 Sheridan, that you get yourself down there on your own prior to 5 the time that they told you to report. And the probation officer 6 can help you understand exactly what your requirements are. But 7 you will be under the Court's supervision until you report.

8 And let me ask you this, if you wanted to report earlier -- 9 the reporting is probably going to be two or three months away?

10 MS. OLSEN: I think it's four to six weeks.

11 THE COURT: I'm sorry?

12 MS. OLSEN: It's four to six weeks.

13 THE COURT: Four to six weeks until he has to report?

14 MS. OLSEN: I'm going to --

15 MR. OKANO: Typically, Your Honor -- Mark Okano with 16 Pretrial Services -- typically it's about 45 days before we get a 17 designation from the Bureau of Prisons.

18 THE COURT: Forty-five days to get the designation. And 19 then how much time do they give him to report?

20 MR. OKANO: Typically two weeks.

21 THE COURT: Two weeks. So we're talking two months.

22 MR. OKANO: But the option is there. If they do want to 23 report early, they can.

24 THE COURT: Yes.

25 So the question is whether you wanted to report early. If

1 you did, just to start it and get it over with, then you should 2 work with pretrial services and probation and see if they can 3 arrange for you to do that.

4 All right. Any objections to the form?

5 MR. NANCE: No, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: I have signed the judgment. It will be 7 filed.

8 Anything further to come before the Court today?

9 MS. CRISHAM: Not from the government, Your Honor.

10 MR. NANCE: Not from the defense.

11 THE COURT: We will be in recess.

12 (Adjourned.)
